

Juliette Tennert is the director of economic and public policy research at the Kem C. Gardner Policy Institute, specializing in Utah's economy, economic forecasting and modeling, fiscal policy analysis, and economic impact studies.

Ms. Tennert holds a master's degree in economics from UNLV and a bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Chicago.

Before joining the Eccles School, Ms. Tennert served as the state budget director and chief economist for Governor Gary Herbert, chief economist for Governor Jon Huntsman, and as a fiscal analyst for the Utah State Legislature. Prior to her state service, Tennert was a research analyst for the Center for Business and Economic Research at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV). She has been honored as one of Utah Business Magazine's annual "30 Women to Watch."