Endnotes

1. This spending figure does not include public transportation spending (i.e. transportation fares and travel reservation costs). Please see Addendum A.
2. When Utah visitors purchase from Utah businesses, the businesses hire employees and purchase from other local businesses, who in turn hire employees and purchase from other local businesses. These rounds of activity produce indirect employment effects. Then, direct and indirect employees spend a portion of their wages in the local economy, spurring additional "induced" effects.
3. State tax revenue includes sales, personal income, fuel, corporate income and other taxes; local tax revenues include sales, property, and other taxes.
4. See note #1 regarding "indirect and induced."
5. Adjusted for inflation. Total spending includes direct spending in addition to indirect and induced spending effects (see note #2, above).

In 2019, domestic and international travelers and tourists spent money on public transportation, including air, shuttle, taxi, rideshare, train, bus, and mass transit fares. U.S. Travel Association reported Utah’s share of this total public transportation spending—or the amount that stayed in Utah—at $1.93 billion. The Gardner Institute estimates that the majority (85%) of public transportation spending takes place along the Wasatch Front—specifically in Salt Lake County—based on the number of private transportation jobs in each county. As the home of the Salt Lake City International Airport, Salt Lake County is the state’s largest transportation hub. Here is a look at 2019 public transportation-related employment for the state, all four Wasatch Front counties, and the rest of the state:
